HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY ARCHIVES (HBCA), ARCHIVES OF MANITOBA

The history of the Hudson's Bay Company is synonymous with the history of the Canadian West. The Company's involvement in the events of the Red River and North West Rebellions is richly documented through the correspondence inward and outward from their headquarters in London, from their district headquarters in North America and through private papers documenting both rebellions. Search online for a description of these records: <http://www.gov.mb.ca/chc/archives/keystone/index.html> or contact the Archives of Manitoba for a listing of records relating to the North West and Red River Rebellions.
